

To whom it may concern:

There is too much violence on TV. There is no longer a debate; all research suggests that behavior is shaped by observation of others' behavior. Albert Bandura in his well known study of children and bats hitting dummies, showed that children will model violent behavior quite readily.

There s/b limits on violence on TV and video games for the good of society.

Thank you.